Bouthern Members of the Court-Has Not Petitioned for Removal of Disabilities.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)
WASHINGTON, May 30.—Dr. A. Y P. Garnett, physician of this . Garnett, physician of this city, Jefferson Davis, with whom he has had long and inginate acquaintance. The Star this evening publishes an inter-view with Dr. Garnett, in which the views of the ex-Confederate President are given upon the political situation and other matters. Dr. Garnett says: In the course of our conversation during the day." replied the Doctor, "Mr. Davis alluded to the political condition of the country by saying that he knew nothing of the present Executive, and that he had not yet progressed far enough with the Administration for him to form an opinion of it. He seemed satisfied with the members of the Cabinet selected from the South, but not disposed, I thought, to entertain a very hopeful view of our future, as he said that respect, love, and veneration for the Constitution which animated the citizens of the United States before the war had now departed from our people, and that the system of government erected by our forefathers existed only in name; that there were elements of disintegration and disrup tion at work in our midst which could only be restrained and held in check by force; that the underlying and fundaprinciples upon which our system of government was erected and upon which the Constiturested, are fast becoming obsolete forgotten by the old men and never learned by the young; that under the rule of Republicanism during the war and subsequent to it the Constitution was made a rope of sand, and that whilst this party of so-called liberal ideas was proclaiming universal free dom and equality on the one hand, they were tearing down and blotting out th very safeguards and defences which alone under our form of government could secure it to them.' Speaking of Commodore Bullock's book, which discloses the secret history of the Confederate agents in England during the war for procuring ships, the Doctor continued, after a pause, "Mr. Davis exhibited much feeling at what he characterized the duplicity and meanness of the English Government in its conduct towards the South, and whilst that Government would permit the United States to purchase and take away as many ships as it desired. there was always some pretext found to prevent the sailing of those vessels purchased by any agent or citizen of the Confederacy, although such vessels were entirely unarmed.' "I asked him if it was true that he had authorized any petition to be pre-sented to the Federal authorities to have his disabilities removed. He replied very emphatically in the negative ad added that he had written an open letter to the author of that petition calling his attention to that fact. He said that he had at all times been perfectly willing to undergo a trial the Government thought proper to bring on such an issue, vided he was to be tried strictly under the provisions of the Constitution. He spoke his convictions and intelligent judgments of public affairs with freedom and independence un trammelled by considerations of policy. I note that word policy. It is a synonym for duplicity, avarice, and cowardice. It particularly gratified me to converse once more with a man who was perfectly honest in what he said, and forcibly recalled to my mind the recollections and associations of antobellum days, when we had statesmen whose utterances were the inspirations of patriotism and not the cunning devices and selfish calculations of policy. There are no statesmen of the sent day, because there are no per fectly pure patriots. Some there are who under the glamour of a pseudo national reputation, or the guise of an idiosyneratic genius, would have us mistake the efforts of a purely selfish and prurient ambition for the dictates of a disinterested and self-abnegating patriotism, but to me at least they are transparent, and I think that I can readily detect the frauds. Mr. Davis certainly does not belong to that

DECORATING THE GRAVES. The Nation's Annual Tribute to Its Defenders-The Ceremonies at Washington, New York, and Elsewhere. [By telegraph to the Dispatch.] WASHINGTON, May 30.—President Cleveland and the Secretaries of War, Navy, Interior, and the Postmaster-General are in New York to-day participating in decoration-lay ceremonies.

All of the public offices in Washington are closed, and by agreement nearly all the banking-houses and many busi ness-houses are also closed. A great throng paraded the streets and filled the neighboring cemeteries, where impressive ceremonies were held, but the drizzling weather and chilly atmosphere detracted from the comfort of whose duty and inclination led them abroad, and a number of listeners to the various orators was much less than usual. Formal ceremonies were held at Arlington, the Soldiers' Home, the Congressional Battle, and Oak-Hill cemeteries. moist atmosphere, which caused a dis-comfort to the people in attendance, was an advantage to the flowers, which were in great profusion on the graves and monuments.

AT PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30. - Al though the weather was overcast and threatening, with occasional showers. the day was generally observed as a holiday, and impressive services were held at all the cemeteries.

AT NEW YORK. NEW YORK, May 30 .- Decoration day being a legal holiday, all banks, exchanges, and down-town offices were closed, and the city had much the appearance of Sunday. The Seventh regiment, while marching from their armory to the position they were to occupy in the procession, paraded past General Grant's house. The General stood at the window and reviewed the regiment as it filed past. He had on a skull cap and was unsupported by his cane. Other members of the family stood at other windows. When Colo-nel Voss was abreast of the house he saluted the General, and the latter lift ed his right hand and returned the courtesy in military fashion. When Reno and Gilson Posts paraded past the house, their band playing " Atlanta to the Sea," the General was visibly affected. He saluted in response to the lifted hats of the men. AT WINCHESTER. WINCHESTER. VA., May 30 .-Memorial services were held this afternoon under the auspices of the Union Cornet Band at the National cemetery, near this city. A procession was formed with the band, the Light Infantry (Captain N. Alton), the clergy, and citizens in carriages and many on foot, including a number of ex-Confederates. Many ladies with floral decorations were at the cemetery when the proces sion arrived. The exercises opened by Major Williams, and prayer was offered by the Bishop of the Meth-odist Episcopal Church. City-Attor-ncy Alexander then delivered an appropriate address. The citizens turned out in large numbers and the best of feeling was manifested.

TROUBLE IN MILFORD, MASS. MILFORD, MASS., May 30 .- Constables to-day refused Post 22, Grand Army of the Republic, entrance to the Catholic cemetery, in accordance with Father Cuddihy's orders. The members of the Post, however, climbed over the fence and decorated the graves, after which they retired. The decorations were subsequently destroyed.

THE RED BRUTES Rapidly Leaving the Vicinity of Silver City-

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.] DENVER, Col., May 30 .- A special from Silver City to the News says the Indians are rapidly leaving this section, all in a southerly direction, and are probably heading for Black Range. No new killings have been reported. Seventeen companies of troops are in the field, but as yet not one Indian has been taken in by them.

TERRIBLE OUTRAGES. TUCSON, ARL., May 30 .- A Silver City dispatch says the bodies of Colo-nel Phillips and his family, who were murdered by the Apaches, have been brought in. All of them are in a horribly-mutilated condition. The daughter had been hung alive by a meat-hook stuck in the back of her head, and Mrs Phillips had had her eyes gouged out and her breasts cut off, and was other wise brutally mangled. Citizens of this place are frantic that such outrages

should be perpetrated without check SAN FRANCISCO, May 30 .- A special to the Chronicle from Deming, N. M., says: Nine of Geronimo's band of Indians have succeeded in crossing into Mexico. After the Terry Lynchers.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.] LYNCHBURG, VA., May 30. reward of $1,000, offered by the State for the discovery of the lynchers of Hairston Terry, who was hanged by a mob at Liberty, Bedford county, on May 18th, has stimulated a number of detectives to attempt to ferret them out.

All persons who were not known in the neighborhood were notified that the detectives would not be tolerated, and one officer who refused to take the hint was tied up and severely whipped. Not withstanding the precautions taken to guard against the discovery, a detec ive who arrived from Liberty to-day laims to have a list of the ringleaders The report creates much excitement, as it is believed by many that some of the best citizens of Bedford county were in the mob. Terry's friends are determined on a thorough investigation o the matter.

Glut in a Leaf-Tobacco Market.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.] LYNCHBURG, VA., May 30.—The obacco glut at this point is unprece dented. Wagons sometimes stand in the street all night, being unable to get to a warehouse to unload. Political-The Rain-Damage to Property-

Correspondence of the Richmond Di MAY 30, 1885. The elections in this vicinity pass off quietly. A comparatively small vote was polled. There was no election here, our officers having been elect ed for two years. In only a few of the districts of York and James City were there opposing candidates. As a general thing the Mahoneite county officers elected are from the most illiterate class. The placing in power of such men has been the cause of a great increase of our court expenses, and of much delay and cost to those having business before the courts. The County Court docket has been crowded with appeal and removed warrants, suitors not being willing to submit to the decision of the ignorant Mahoneite justices. The Town Council at its meeting last night passed resolutions of respect to the memory of the late Dr. R. M. Garrett, who was a member of that The excessive rains for the past week have resulted most disastrously to the farmers and mill-owners about here.

Many farmers who had planted their peanuts and corn had their seed washed completely away, and fences shared a similar fate. The accumulation of water in the mill-ponds was rapid that the waste-gates could not carry it off, and con-sequently several of the dams were broken. The mill belonging to Mr. Len Jones was seriously damaged by having one corner entirely washed away from the foundation to the roof. Mr. Sill Jones, who owns the valuable property one mile from town, seeing that his dam could not sustain the pressure, had it cut at one end in order save his mill buildings. The loss sustained by this latter gentleman is doubly heavy, as he had just spent a large sum in rebuilding the property. which was similarly destroyed several years ago. A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

A Drunken Man Fires Into a Crowd and Kills Two Men and Wounds Three Others.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.] BINGHAMTON, N. Y., May 30.—At Deposit Town, on the Erie road, 45 miles east of this city, occurred to-day an awful tragedy. George Axtell, a young man residing eight miles from Deposit, visited that place and drank more or less during the day. About 3:45 o'clock, while in Conrow's saloon, he became angered at a negro waiter, and, pulling a revolver, began firing. The saloon was crowded. Axtell fired five shots, killing two men outright and wounding the third fatally and two more quitseriously. The men killed were Wiliam Perry, aged thirty-eight, a jewel ler, and C. Freeman, aged twenty-five a farmer. F. A. French, farmer, aged sixty, was shot in the bowels and fatally wounded. Fred. Weaver had his nose broken by a bullet, and another man, name unknown, was shot through the cheek. After Axtell's desperate deed he was arrested by an officer, and s now in jail here.

On the farm of William Parsons, near Rockingham, five houses were blown down, many trees entirely swept away, and a path 100 yards wide cleared through the timber. The cyclone passed within two miles of Bostick's mills, in Richmond county, demolishing the large barn of W. R. Covington. It blew a heavy piece of timber through the wall of Covington's house, the beam enter-ing the room endways. The storm wrecked the dwelling of William Parsons. It is difficult to obtain news from that section, but it is probable that the storm has done far more damage than is yet known.

History Collated.

In the May number of The Century,
p. 107, General Joseph E. Johnston says, in regard to the conduct of the army (Confederate) after the battle of Manassas, President Davis wrote to him : "I call upon you to say whether I obstructed the pursuit of the enemy after the victory at Manassas, or have ever objected to an advance, or any other active operation which it was possible for the army to undertake." I replied on the 10th, answering his first question in the negative, and added an explanation which put the responsibility on myself. This explanation, I suppose, is given on page 106: "Mr. Davis seems to have forgotten what was as well known then as now-that our army was more disorganized by victory than that of the United States by de feat; that there were strong fortifications, well manned, to cover the approaches to Washington and prevent the establishment of our guns on the south bank of the river. He knew, too, that we had no means of cannonading the capital, nor a disposition to make barbarous war. Cooke's Life of General T. J.

Jackson, page 78: "For three days Jackson waited impatiently for the order to advance upon Washington. We have have heard his exclamation on the field of battle that with ten thousand men he could enter the Federal capital that night. And to the future, when all the facts shall be published, we must leave the decision of the question whether he erred. What seems plain is that Washington at that moment was almost undefended, the Federal army routed, and the way open. Jackson thought the movement perfectly pracsome impatience, 'I have three days' rations cooked, ready to advance. Why don't the order come?'''
The actual condition of affairs at Washington as detailed by William Howard Russell in his "My Diary, North and South," sustains the almost miraculous military genius of Jackson. He says on page 469-70: "There is no provost guard, no patrol, no authority visible in the tents. General Scott is quite overwhelmed with the affair, and is unable to stir. General McDowell has not yet arrived. Secretary of War knows not what to do. Mr. Lincoln is equally helpless, and Mr. Seward, who retains some calmness, is, notwitstanding rank and military experience, without resource or extroops hanging on about the camps and posts on the other side of the river, it is said; but they are thoroughdisorganized and will run away if the enemy comes in sight without a shot, and then the capital must fall at Why Beauregard does not come I know not, nor can I well guess. I have been expecting every hour since noon to hear his cannon. Here is a golden opportunity. If the Confederates do not grasp that which will never come again on such terms, it stamps them with mediocrity." BULL RUN.
